SALOONS IN ACCOUNT :: :: WITH COMMONWEALTH

By Henry H. Faxon, Quincy, Mass.

INDER the authority of an Act passed by the Massachusetts Legislature of 1894, the Bureau of Statisties of Labor engaged in a thorough investigation of the relation of the liquor traffic to pauperism, crime and nsanity. The collection of information occupied twelve months, closing with August, 1895. The official report of this Bureau contains facts which the most ardent temperance advocate has not asserted concerning the saloon's relation to industrial prosperity. The investigation has been conducted with entire impartiality, neither theory nor bias having place kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as in this work.

Saloons and Drunkenness.-One interesting branch of the Bureau's investigation related to the arrests for drunkeaness and for other crimes in licens and no-license cities and towns. Of the 353 cities and towns of the State, there were fifty-three which were under the license policy during the year, and from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer 260 which were under no-license, while & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and there were forty which, owing to a change of policy, were partly under ilcense and partly under no-license. icense cities and towns showed 36.24 arrests for drunkenness to every 1,000 of the population; the no-license communities showed 9.94 such arrests to every 1,000 of the population. Arrests for offences other than drunkenness were 22.34 to each 1,000 of the population in the license cities and owns; in the no-license cities and owns they were 10.26 to every 1,000 > of the population. In Hayerhill the average number of arrests for drunkenness per month under license was 81.68, under nolicense 26.50; in Lynn, under license. 315 : under no-license, 127.63 ; in Medford, under license, 20.12, under nocense, 13,25; in Pittsfield, under license, 93.25, under no-license, 36.75: and in Salem, under license, 140.50, under no-license, 29,63.

Saloons and Paupers.-- Examining he statistics of paupers, where the inquiry covered all the persons found in the State institutions during twelve consecutive months, we find that exquor, and three-fourths of these used all kinds or at least two kinds of liquor. Yearly one-half of the paupers had one or both parents intemperate. About thirty-nine in every 100 attributed their pauperism to their own intemperate habits, and about five in every dred attributed their pauperism to intemperance of parents.

ABOUT THE SAME.

The North Lynches So Does th

There is reason to fear that unless some effective check can be put to the lynching habit in the South it may soon grow to be as prevalent as it is in the North and West.

In the first place, the less we imitate the northern way of treating the negro the better will be the status between the races in this section, where they have a mutual and bereditary habitat. We do not wish it to happen anywhere in the South that negro laborers shall be attacked with deadly weapons and fatal results for no greater offense than taking up abandoned jobs, as at Pana and Verdun in Illinois. Or shot down by platoons of police, as in New York for resisting the attack of a gang of hoodlums. Or pursued and killed for robbing a house, as in New Jersey. Or hanged and beaten to death with base ball bats, as at Pittsburg a few days ago, because the murdered negroes were better crap shooters than the whites who played with them. And by the way, that mob, we are told by the press dispatches, "was composed of espectable and well-to-do people !"

Lynchings only receive any support from public opinion when they are the reprisal for one hemous crime. In all other cases the law-abiding people wish the laws respected and fair trials given the accused.

In the second place we do not think it at all necessary that we should try to "even up" these unlawful affairs with Kind words can never die, so we the North. The Term "Greenhorn."

The term "greenborn" originated in this way: The pioneers of the west were much given to hunting deer. It was a fact known to the early settlers that when the horn of a fawn began to grow there was a ring of green hair around the spot where the horn was coming out. It was considered a disgraceful thing for a hunter to kill a fawn, a cruel act, and the killing time was regulated by the growth of the horn. There was a sort of unwritten law that no one should kill a male fawn before its horns could be seen.

A person who was so unthoughtful s to kill a deer under the proper age was called a "greenhorn." He was so named because the young horn of the deer and the hair around it were still green. The use of the appellation gradually spread until it was applied to all raw or inexperienced youths or persons easily imposed upon.

HIS LAST HOPE REALIZED. [From The Sentinel. Gebo, Mont.]
In the first opening of Oklahoma to attlers in 1889, the editor of this paper was among the many seekers after for-tune who made a big race one fine day in April. During his traveling about and afterwards his comping upon his claim, be encountered much bad waer, which, together with the seven heat, gave him a very severe diarrhoes which it seemed almost impossible to check, and along in Jupe the case became so had he expected to die. One day one of his neighbors brought him one small bottle of Chamberlein's Colio, Cholera and Diarrhoes Remedy at a last hope. A big dose was given him while he was rolling about on the ground in great agony, and in a few EGGS SAFELY HANDLED.

Fracile as They Are the Breakage in Transit is Astonishingly Small.

New York Sun. "Many eggs broken in handling? You would be surprised to know how lew." said the commission merchant. "The egg is a fragile thing? It certainly is, but as a matter of fact the breekage of eggs in transit and in handling is extremely small, really next to nothing. The commercial egg package almost universally used throughout the country at the present time is a case containing thirty dozen. There were received in New York last year, 2,869,269 cases of eggs; multiply that by 360, the number of eggs to a case, if you care to know the total number of eggs.

You might think that, packed in that manner, the eggs would shuck about and smash against one another and so get broken. but they didn't; but being comparatively a heavy and bulky package the barrel got, naturally, more heavy jolts and jars in handling than a lighter package would and more eggs were broken in it in that way. But with the modern egg case, giving not only security in the package itself but making a package that can be easily and conveniently and safely handled, the breakage in eggs is reduced to a very nall matter indeed. In the hott of the egg case is spread a thin layer of excelsior, over which is laid a sheet of card board, upon that being set a rack of card board pockets, each pocket a pockets, and so the case is filled, the top layer of eggs being covered with a "Johnwy," said the teacher, "write a final sheet of card board, while a layer made of white wood, of thin, light stuff, but it serves its purpose well, and the strengthening strips nailed cross the ends serve admirably as

Are there solid egg trains? Not many, but this forthe reason that the eggs are gathered originally from many and widely scattered points: but solid cars of eggs and bunches of cars are common, frequent, every-day shipments. And, packed as they are nowadays, eggs for this market come from everywhere, pounding over a thousand, fifteen hundred, two bousand miles of railroad from as far orth and west as North Dakota, and from as far south and west as Texas, with scarcely any breakage worth

"As a matter of fact there were not a very great many eggs broken in ship-
